The McArdles, father and son, and Friedman were on that side.

"Donnelly and Mr. Severance jumped up and faced about towards Chambers street. Donnelly had a revolver in his hand, and Severance grabbed him.

"There was an old gentleman (I afterwards learned that it was old man McArdle, Patrick McArdle) in the middle of the room with a revolver in his hand.

"Then there were two pistol shoits, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from old man McArdle's. McArdle held his revolver up straight in the air. Severance was on Donnelly's back.

"Then some person held a revolver around me from behind and pointed close up to Donnelly's abdomen.

The order from Washington is a sad hiow to many of the men, as in these hard times they said it would be almost impossible for them to find employment. Orders from Washington Cause a Pres'dent Martin Advised His Selection at To-Day's Conference.

Proved to Come First.

Assistant District-Attorney Francis L. counsel for the Police Commissioners in the investigation of accused police of ficers, which they are about to make. His appointment was decided upon at a conference in the Mayor's office, which was attended by Mayor Gilroy, Corporation Counsel Clark, District-Attorney Fellows and President Martin, of the Police Board.

Mr. Wellman is Mr. Martin's personal choice, and Mr. Clark, who has the appointing power, will make the appointment officially to-morrow. Mr. man is a county officer and may receive extra compensation for his services. It is said the law which provides that no city officer shall draw two salaries does not apply to this case. Mr. Clark said:

"I think Mr. Wellman is the best man that could have been chosen to vigorous prosecutor. As a cross-examiner he has few peers, and in securing and arranging his evidence he has no superiors. His honesty of purpose as a prosecutor has never been questioned, and I don't think it will be doubted that the investigation will be the fought and complete."

Mr. Wellman will look over the evidence presented to the Lexow Committee, and will also admit new evidence. While he looks after the legal end of the proposed investigation, the Superintendent is the head, and the responsibility of making the charges lies with him. President Martin said this afternoon that he thought Mr. Wellman would not leave a stone unturned to bring all policemen to justice who have in any way been lawbreakers. He further said that Mr. Wellman will confer with the Superintendent daily, but he did not expect that any charges would be brought for a week or so.

The cases which are considered to be the easiest proven will take precedence over the others, but it will be optional with Messrs. Byrnes and Wellman to elect which of the accused "coppers" shell be first placed on trial.

Commissioner Murray professed absolute ignorance of Mr. Wellman's selection as counsel for the Board until informed by an "Evening World" reporter.

Lie declared that he had not been con-

no idea that an attorney was to be selected ouside the Corporation Counsies office.

However, he expressed himself as well satisfied with the selection.

Supt. Brynes was notified of the selection by President Martin this afternoon. He seemed to accept the matter indifferently.

He said that it was immaterial to him what lawyer assisted him in the preparation of the cases, as long as he was a competent one.

The announcement caused considerable of a sensation about Police Headquarters, where it had been generally supposed that Assistant Corporation Counsel Blandy, who has conducted all the cases for the Commissioners heretofore, would be chosen.

The mare then went on after the others, and as soon as she passed the finish, turned and trotted back to the tudges' stand, and stood there waiting to be unsaddled.
